"The storytelling in this memoir/self-help hybrid is so expertly woven that to call it just a 'dating advice' book does not do it justice.... Chad Stone doesn't let any observation go without notice, which is wonderful because his unique perspective is presented in a voice that is always honest and real."

"Stone has managed to make his search for a new wife and a new life both poignant and knee-slapping funny. He's found a niche as the Dave Barry of dating."

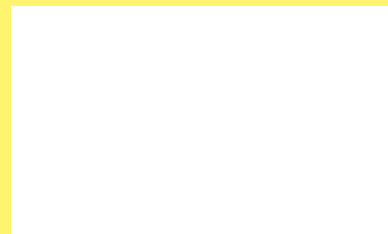

—Amazon.com review

Confessions of a Middle-Aged Babe Magnet is a journey of modern self-discovery that is laugh-out-loud funny in some places and poignantly tender in others. After his marriage ends, Chad Stone begins a middle-aged dating adventure in search of the last great love of his life. As he tells his story, Stone reveals a series of "Babe Magnet Rules" designed to help men succeed in the dating world. For women, the book offers a unique, unvarnished look into the mind of a real man—revealing how a single man thinks and why he behaves as he does.

Fascinating, entertaining and heartfelt, Confessions of a Middle-Aged Babe Magnet is a triumph of the human spirit and proof that love is possible at any age—as long as you're willing to embrace it. Stone's tongue-in-cheek "Babe Magnet" persona turns out to be merely the vehicle he uses to find the last great love of his life.
